JESSE VENTURA

Mainstream Paper Refuses Ventura's 9-11 Commentary

A popular news web site recently censored a controversial column by Jesse Ventura, in which Ventura questions the official story of the Sept. 11 attacks. In this week's issue, AMERICAN FREE PRESS, a fierce advocate of free speech, is publishing Ventura's feature piece so that Americans can read for themselves what the popular former governor has to say.

PROBE OF CHERTOFF URGED

Former Ohio Rep. Jim Traficant says Michael Chertoff guilty of massive influence peddling

Jim Traficant is calling on federal investigators to initiate a probe into charges that Michael Chertoff—the head of the Justice Department's criminal division and later Homeland Security chief—not only pressured a witness into lying during the prosecution of Traficant, but also used his influence to secure a highly profitable deal for a government contractor.

Starbucks' Gutsy Policy On Possession of Guns Should Be Commended

Constitution Party presidential candidate Chuck Baldwin says, "Hooray for Starbucks." The Second Amendment-supporting multinational coffee corporation recently announced it has no problem with citizens packing guns in its java houses. Hopefully, Starbucks' courageous stance percolates into a noticeable trend that gives a shot to renewed support for the U.S. Constitution across the country.
