

DEFEND AMERICA FIRST!

A Memorial Day Tribute to Those Who Have Answered their Nation's Call to Arms

American Free Press is a nationalist, not a pacifist, newspaper. We believe in a strong national defense and that it is vital to Defend America First. We respect our men and women in uniform and support them wholeheartedly.

However, we do have serious questions about the political, religious and ideological motivations of armchair civilian war-hawks who are dictating the policies of our government today. Our philosophy echoes that of the original America First Committee—chaired by General Robert Wood—which described its philosophy as follows:

DEFEND with all the might, skill, means and resources that make America the greatest nation on earth. With sanity and unselfish efficiency and concentration on our own preparedness now, we can smash any nation which is foolish enough to think it can launch a 3,000 mile blitzkrieg.

AMERICA is the one hope and our first allegiance. Our fathers built it and it is up to us to see that it is not dragged back into the ancient hate and strife which they left Europe to escape.

FIRST we must make ourselves strong. America needs every ship and every plane it can make. As long as we are unprepared it is suicide to talk of giving what little we have to another nation. After we have built a two-fisted defense for America, then and only then can we afford to put sympathy beside patriotism.

In that spirit, American Free Press opposes unnecessary U.S. meddling abroad—reckless imperial intervention that only makes America enemies, brings vast profits to international banking houses and arms manufacturers, and racks up vast national debt that enchains America's consumers, taxpayers and voters.

We endorse the view, put forth by the late Major (See U.S. GENERALS SPEAK, Page B-4)

Who Wants Perpetual War for Perpetual Peace?

Some 50 years ago an American seer saw the inevitable consequences of global imperialism by the United States and the dangers of futile wars in the name of "democracy." Lawrence Dennis made an appeal to reason that has even more relevance to the future survival of mankind today than it did then.

By Lawrence Dennis

The day of profitable exploitation by the white man of Africa or Asia is now over. From here on profitable cooperation only is a rational and practical objective.

The American people were sold two world wars on a general theory that a war to end war and the world rule of law could enforce peace with justice. As we have now often repeated, the craziest phrase or idea of the 20th Century was that of a war to end war.

The big U.S. idea [is that] the world must be unified by force: ours or theirs. This idea is factually and logically all wrong. But is now accepted as a 100 percent American idea. If you want to be a conformist and not a non-conformist, a dissenter or a subversive, security risk, you must subscribe to this wrong idea.

We are prepared to join with fellow Americans in the defense of this country against any invasion by foreigners in search of living space.

But we are indisposed to fight or have Americans fight to protect any other area of people from similar wars or attacks. For such wars, our advice is that we should keep out of them, try to keep them localized and limited, try to avert or to end them by the use of good offices and negotiation with both sides.

We want no part of wars to liberate other peoples. Let them liberate themselves. We want no part of wars to defend the status quo in other areas. The dynamics of hate and fear have run the West in two wars.

Whipping up mass hate and fear is the easiest and surest way for a political leader in the western world to come to power and to wield power. It is now the approved way to get a country into a war or to keep it in a state of permanent war such as we are in right now.

No political leader in Africa or Asia can have a better asset than to be disliked or denounced by Americans.

The dynamics of hate and fear can, in the long run, only prove fatal for the minority. The white West, or the haves, are the minority.

Permanent Mid-East crisis has great headline news value for policy. How could our power elite in Washington get from $40 billion to $50 billion a year for spending on foreign aid if they did not have war-crisis headlines from the Mid-East and other areas in our newspapers most of the time. It is wonderful having a "colored world Hitler" who is nowhere near so dangerous or powerful as was Adolf.

The end result is certain. Time, numbers and space are with the colored world. They are with the Muslim nationalists and against the Israeli nationalists. What the colored world has lacked has been unity and dynamism for war on the whites.

Well, Israel, like America's big soap operas in the Pacific, is contributing to the unification and activation of the colored world for war against the colonial and other outsiders. The white colonial powers and the Israelis, certainly, can never achieve ultimate and decisive force superiority over the colored world and the vast areas it populates.

The western or white world, however, if it were guided by operational rationalism and calculation instead of mystical legalism, moralism and traditionalism, could easily formulate and work out propositions or deals with the colored world that are mutually advantageous to both or to all concerned. This is our "constructive" word.

Only a return to neutrality, as counseled in Washington's Farewell Address, could really insure against our government starting and fighting a third world war against overwhelming numerical odds.

The America people, of course, will not be told that American troops must be sent to the Mid-East to protect the oil stakes. They will be told American intervention in that area is necessary to defend America.

The more natives the American or foreign troops kill, the better for the long run interests of native nationalisms now on the warpath against outsiders.

AFP Gets it Right; Rest of Media on War Bandwagon

Is anybody out there paying any attention to what American Free Free Press has been telling them about U.S. involvement in the Middle East or U.S. meddling anywhere in the world for that matter?

What about America's unconstitutional, aggressive war against Iraq? This war is another masterpiece of media promotion with an appeal to the patriotism that all loyal Americans express.

Since 9-11 our government, especially the president, has played the patriotism card to rally the people around the notion that the United States should embark on a global crusade to eradicate terrorism once and for all. And it goes without saying that with terrorism and terrorist governments gone, beautiful tranquil peace loving democracies will rise in their place. Sure they will!

Lots of Americans are so uncritical of government that they believe all that the plutocrat owned and operated media can put on their plate. The public's faith in their elected representatives and senators in Congress is skeptical at best but they think that matters could be worse.

It's not too long now that our president without blinking announced before a joint session of Congress that America's first task would be to rid the world of the evil axis of terror, comprised of Iraq, Iran and North Korea. The author of this speech was none other than one David Frum, a leading member of the neo-conservative coalition that constantly promotes using the U.S. military as a tool for Zionist and imperialist causes—at the expense of the U.S. taxpayer.

So the United States proceeded to take on Iraq—for the second time in a dozen years. Our first invasion of Iraq in 1991 resulted in our killing a half million Iraqi children and devastating untold thousands of buildings with a greater tonnage of bombs dropped on Iraq than America dropped during WWII. But it was very profitable for the military-industrial complex.

As enunciated by Iraq's foes, within and without our government, Iraq had accumulated a vast stockpile of weapons of mass destruction with which she could wipe out her Middle East neighbors and attack Americans.

In fact, the greatest nuclear threat to that part of the world is not Iraq but Israel which has a huge cache of weapons of mass destruction—a fact which is a well known secret.

The United States supplies Israel with state-of-the-art war materiel at a cost of no less than $10 billion per year. The Christian Science Monitor says we have given Israel $1.6 trillion.

Now, Israel wants to increase her take from the U.S. by an immediate payment of $14 billion in direct aid and loans guarantees—which will never be paid back—to pay for its costly occupation of Palestine.

GLOBAL ADVENTURISM

The Palestinians, who receive hardly anything from us and have to endure the Israeli confiscation and destruction of their land, homes and businesses, are blamed for the trouble fomented and created by Israel.

Incidentally, Israel, a major nuclear power, refuses to sign the nuclear non-proliferation treaty.

Meanwhile, the United States taxpayers continue to finance global adventurism. Secretary of State Colin Powell tours the Middle East allegedly trying to bring peace to that area but not succeeding. As we write this, Powell is in Riyadh, Saudi Arabia, which has experienced a terrorist attack on a housing compound in which eight Americans died and several others were wounded.

Back home in the United States the unemployment rate reaches another high and millions of Americans can't find work. The president talks of our victory over Iraq and promises more triumphs to come.

Uncle Sam the Black Sheep of the Family?

ward to nuclear war and backward to holy war. This is the century of religious wars. For the opening of the third great religious war of one lifetime, no area could be more appropriate than the Holy Land. The staging and casting are superb and logical.

It is the chosen land of the chosen people. It is under the special personal care of God, or rather, Yahweh, the God of Israel.

Now Uncle Sam has taken over. Of course, Allah, the God of the Muslims, is in the other camp, that of the Arabs. Yahweh helped the children of Israel take over the Promised Land more than once in the past 4,000 years. But he never stopped their several expulsions and dispersions. This is what Uncle Sam must do in the future.

For reasons which we, like the theologians, are unable to give, Yahweh allowed the Chosen People to be driven out of the Chosen Land more than once. But Uncle Sam cannot permit anything like that to happen to the new Israel. Uncle Sam is no defeatist. He does not put up with war, sin or aggression. He fights wars to end war. He is a perfectionist.

The believers in the great religions with a Messianic Promise used to wait and pray for the coming of the Messiah and the dawn of the Millennium. Americans, however, today must not just wait and pray for the Millennium; they must fare forth and fight for it—all over the planet . . . This is the new internationalism.

God never stopped war or evil in all history as Uncle Sam now must do. We do know that Uncle Sam is committed to not allowing war or aggression to happen without getting in to stop war. He cannot allow the Chosen People to be driven out of Israel as they were, more than once, in the past. How fitting to have World War III start in the Holy Land.

What will be the nature, the extent, the duration and the end results of America's third war in one lifetime to end war and to stop evil? Well, it is going to be interesting to watch the American casualties pile up in the mid-east as Uncle Sam tries to stop what Yahweh did not stop in the distant past. And it is going to be even more interesting to follow American mass reactions to the killed and wounded from the Crusade in the Holy Land.

Now that Uncle Sam has taken over and is trying to do a job Yahweh never did, Uncle Sam can never admit any imputation of sin or evil against one of his allies or protégés. One has to get security clearance. The other has to be branded as subversive. It won't be long now until Judaism and Mohammedanism will be up for security rating in the permanent war.

There is just one devil—that against Uncle Sam or not with him.

Well, if man's know-how cannot end war or sin, it can now end the human race. We now have an infinite potential for annihilation. How long can our idealists hold in check their impulse to do good by pulling the global annihilation trigger?

The new religious war rationalization is to call it law enforcement. Attempts at an unattainable world rule of one law insure permanent religious war, inflation and socialism.

About the only subject of general agreement among the shapers of American opinion and policy today, so far as war and power politics—inter or intra national—are concerned, is that there must be no return to neutralism.

The biggest crime of the 20th Century may turn out to be the eventual extinction of the human race by nuclear radiation in a war fought with the weapons which we, peace-loving, good Americans are now having our scientists perfect.

We are developing these weapons to end war, communism and sin on this planet and thereby ushering in the Millennium. ★

On Oct. 21, 2002, AFP editorialized about the aggressive war against Iraq. We wrote that "no one knows for sure whether Iraqi leader Saddam Hussein possesses so-called weapons of mass destruction. Still, we think there is another reason for Bush's dogged crusade to out Saddam—and it isn't because he cares a stitch about ridding the world of despots and thugs."

His "call to target Iraq for 'regime change' is a crude attempt to distract the American public from the problems at home . . . topping that list is the federal government's catastrophic failure to get to the bottom of the worst case of domestic terrorism—the Sept. 11 attacks."

In the double issue of March 3 & 10, 2003, this newspaper editorialized that "no good can come from this war." Since the war would be fought for the benefit of another nation (Israel), the United States would be left with the wreckage. The cost to taxpayers would be a trillion dollars, more terrorism here at home, fewer freedoms to enjoy and the working middle class stuck with the bill.

On March 31 another editorial said, "[A]musing how the Bush administration attempts to mask its evil design by papering it over with promises of humanitarian aid to Iraqi survivors."

On May 12, AFP editorialized that "the situation [in Iraq] is looking more like Palestine, where an occupying army continues to savage a population with acts of violence."

And continued, "This was not a noble war. In fact, it was—and continues to be—detrimental to America's interests."

"How Washington elites could coolly tell Americans that we should expect our troops to be welcomed and cel-

In fact, this country is increasingly becoming a police state as officials move ahead with programs to monitor, detain and deport political dissidents.

Soldiers' Families Languish in Poverty While Fat Cats Rake in Big War Bucks

Life is difficult for the average American military family. But the economic outlook is rosy for the next several decades if you happen to be a war profiteer.

By John Tiffany

While the war profiteers are rolling in clover, the families of the men who fight and die in George W. Bush's imperialistic wars are not so fortunate. For starters, many military families must survive on food stamps and live in low-rent housing.

Whenever the question of a pay raise for the military comes up, they usually get next to nothing. If you are a surviving family member of an American soldier killed in: action, the first check you get is a $6,000 “direct death benefit.” Of this, the first $3,000 is taxable. If you are a surviving spouse, you get $833 a month. Also there is a payment of $211 per month for each child under 18. When you remarry, or when a child reaches 18, these payments stop.

But if you are a weapons manufacturer, this post-9-11 era is a great time to be in the war “biz.”

This is the same “military-industrial complex” which President Dwight D. Eisenhower warned against in his 1960 farewell address.

Northrop Grumman, for example, manufactures planes and bombers, including the B-2 bomber and the

Remember, the United States has been occupying the German nation since 1945—the “end” of the Second World War.

There has not only been no peace treaty with Germany but it has no constitution and is legally operating under the London Decree of Aug. 8, 1945 imposed by the armies of the United States, Britain and the Soviet Union.* Germany's government is clearly de facto but not de jure.

George Washington and our Founding Fathers warned about entangling alliances and the perils of maintaining a well-financed standing army. We have not heeded that sage advice. And because we have not done so, the future of America looks very bleak for all except the exploiters, profiteers and their allies.

This Memorial Day, remember the brave men and women—average Americans, like you and me—who paid the supreme sacrifice by answering the call to serve their country at the behest of the internationalists. Pray that not all of them died in vain. ★

F-14 fighter. The company also makes the much-praised unmanned Global Hawk. The $10 million per copy Global Hawk was deployed to Afghanistan despite the fact that it had not completed its testing requirements.

When Wall Street reopened on Sept. 17, 2001, Northrop Grumman's stock had risen 16 percent to $94 a share in anticipation of the coming conflagration. Two days after bombing in Afghanistan began, Northrop Grumman's stock reached a three-year high of $107.60 a share on the New York Stock Exchange.

Another munitions company, Raytheon, is best known for its Tomahawk cruise missile. About 100 of these million-dollar missiles were lobbed at Afghanistan from U.S. Navy ships—50 in the opening salvo alone.

Orders for Tomahawk missiles have come in from allies such as Britain, which signed a contract for 48 Tomahawk missiles in an $87 million deal. Raytheon is confident that significant Pentagon orders will follow.

Raytheon also makes the “bunker buster” GBU-28 (a 5,000-pound bomb) and missiles like the TOW, Maverick and Javelin, all used in Gulf War II.

In addition to missiles, Raytheon also builds sensors and radar used on unmanned and manned reconnaissance airplanes.

After taking a severe beating a year and a half before 9-11, Raytheon is now the biggest stock percentage gainer since the Bush wars—which are anticipated to last for some 40 years—began. On Sept. 10, 2001 the company's stock stood at $26.85; now it is holding at about $32.80.

Similar stories can be told of Lockheed Martin and Boeing.

Boeing recently dispatched an army of lobbyists to Washington looking for Congress's help in the form of approval for a set of proposals that make sense if the goal is profits for Boeing, but which make no military sense:

- Air Force purchase of 60 Boeing C-17 cargo aircraft under a special “commercial” provision that removes financial oversight;
- Air Force leasing of 100 Boeing 767 planes to be converted into surveillance planes and mobile command centers for the military;
- Protection from billions in potential liability claims stemming from the 9-11 attacks;
- Measures to encourage Lockheed Martin to share its Joint Strike Fighter contract.

Large Standing Army Invites Plutocratic Abuse

As it appears more likely that the United States is slowly but deliberately being reshaped into an aggressive imperial power, the argument once again arises as to the necessity of maintaining a standing army. Some of America's Founding Fathers were aware of the consequences of keeping a massive armed force and its potential for abuse at the hands of the worst element of the population—the plutocracy. The following is an excerpt from President Thomas Jefferson's “First Annual Message,” delivered to the Senate and House of Representatives on Dec. 8, 1801, where the Virginia gentleman proposed arming a militia to defend against attacks on America over permanently retaining large garrisons of professional soldiers:

A statement has been formed by the secretary of war, on mature consideration, of all the posts and stations where garrisons will be expedient, and of the number of men requisite for each garrison. The whole amount is considerably short of the present military establishment. For the surplus no particular use can be pointed out. For defense against invasion, their number is as nothing; nor is it conceived needful or safe that a standing army should be kept up in time of peace for that purpose.

Uncertain as we must ever be of the particular point in our circumference where an enemy may choose to invade us, the only force which can be ready at every point and competent to oppose them, is the body of neighboring citizens as formed into a militia. On these, collected from the parts most convenient, in numbers proportioned to the invading foe, it is best to rely, not only to meet the first attack, but if it threatens to be permanent, to maintain the defense until regulars may be engaged to relieve them.

These considerations render it important that we should at every session continue to amend the defects which from time to time show themselves in the laws for regulating the militia, until they are sufficiently perfect. Nor should we now or at any time separate, until we can say we have done everything for the militia which we could do were an enemy at our door. ★

U.S. Generals Speak Against War

General Smedley Darlington Butler (1881-1940) the highly-decorated U.S. Marine Corps hero (and winner of two Congressional Medals of Honor) who said, forthrightly, that "War is a Racket." Here's what Butler had to say in 1933 about his own war-time experiences. It is worth pondering as America ventures abroad in search of enemies near and far:

War is just a racket—something that is not what it seems to the majority of people. Only a small inside group knows what it is about. It is conducted for the benefit of the very few at the expense of the masses. I believe in adequate defense at the coastline and nothing else. If a nation comes over here to fight, then we'll fight. I wouldn't go to war again as I have done to protect some lousy investment of the bankers.

There are only two things we should fight for. One is the defense of our homes and the other is the Bill of Rights. War for any other reason is simply a racket.

There isn't a trick in the racketeering bag that the military gang is blind to. It has its "finger men" to point out enemies, its "muscle men" to destroy enemies, its "brain men" to plan war preparations, and a "Big Boss": Super-Nationalistic-Capitalism.

It may seem odd for me, a military man, to adopt such a comparison. Truthfulness compels me to.

I spent 33 years and four months in active military service as a member of this country's most agile military force, the Marine Corps. I served in all commissioned ranks from Second Lieutenant to Major-General. And during that period, I spent most of my time being a high class muscle-man for Big Business, for Wall Street and for the Bankers. In short, I was a racketeer, a gangster for capitalism.

I suspected I was just part of a racket at the time. Now I am sure of it. Like all the members of the military profession, I never had a thought of my own until I left the service. My mental faculties remained in suspended animation while I obeyed the orders of higher-ups. This is typical with everyone in the military service.

I helped make Mexico, especially Tampico, safe for American oil interests in 1914. I helped make Haiti and Cuba a decent place for the National City Bank boys to collect revenues in. I helped in the raping of half a dozen Central American republics for the benefits of Wall Street. The record of racketeering is long.

I helped purify Nicaragua for the international banking house of Brown Brothers in 1909-1912. I brought light to the Dominican Republic for American sugar interests in 1916. In China I helped to see to it that Standard Oil went its way un molested.

During those years, I had, as the boys in the back room would say, a swell racket. Looking back on it, I feel that I could have given Al Capone a few hints. The best he could do was to operate his racket in three districts. I operated on three continents.

In the spirit of unabashed American patriotism, American Free Press is proud to put forth this special Memorial Day tribute to those who died in foreign wars and a plea that, in the future, the only wars that American men and women must fight will be those that are fought to DEFEND AMERICA FIRST. ★

War Is a Racket

istration, including Defense Secretary Donald Rumsfeld, have proclaimed the need to revise our armed forces from a Cold War mentality to a modern one.

But the programs earmarked for this additional spending belie such statements. Instead of the funds being dedicated to weapons systems and training that would enable our troops to more effectively fight on the modern battlefields of urban centers, inhospitable mountain terrain and against enemies who operate in the shadows, the money is to go into such things as the F-22 fighter and a National Missile Defense shield—programs virtually useless in a "War on Terrorism."

In addition, various war profiteers have been awarded $680 million in corporate welfare to rebuild Iraq's roads, schools, hospitals and sewer systems—a bonanza for Bechtel, known jokingly in business circles as Bushtel.

Meanwhile Kellogg Brown and Root, a Halliburton subsidiary, stands to make a profit of some $490 million rebuilding Iraq's oil wells with taxpayer money if it holds out—if it doesn't, by increasing the national debt.

It is currently expected that Iraq will be under U.S. military rule for at least the next five years. How many extra billions this will cost is unknown.

United States defense companies pay their chief executives 50 percent more than other big companies. The typical American CEO earned $3.7 million in 2002, while the typical defense industry top exec raked in $5.4 million. ★
